Fraud, bribery, corruption, extortion, embezzlement, kickbacks, and other improper business practices are prohibited.

Suppliers and persons acting on their behalf must not offer, promise, give, request, or accept money, gifts, commissions, favours, or other benefits for the purpose of improperly influencing a business, procurement, regulatory, or other decision.

Suppliers must not use third parties or intermediaries to undertake conduct that would otherwise violate these requirements.

Any actual or potential conflict of interest involving a Weaver Bird employee, representative, or decision-maker should be promptly disclosed.

Suppliers must not offer personal benefits, employment opportunities, financial interests, or other advantages to Weaver Bird employees for the purpose of improperly influencing business decisions.

6. Gifts and Hospitality

Reasonable and appropriate business hospitality may be acceptable where it:

Workers must not be unlawfully discriminated against, intimidated, harassed, or subjected to retaliation for lawfully exercising such rights.

12. Health and Safety

Weaver Bird logos, customer logos, school crests, corporate branding, artwork, patterns, designs, photographs, technical materials, or other protected content provided for production purposes must not be copied, reproduced, sold, distributed, or used for unrelated purposes without appropriate authorisation.

Suppliers must not knowingly supply counterfeit goods or improperly use another party's trademarks, copyrighted material, designs, or other intellectual property.

19. Subcontracting

Suppliers must ensure that subcontracting does not compromise the requirements of this Code or agreed product specifications.

Where Weaver Bird requires prior approval before goods or services are subcontracted, suppliers must obtain that approval before transferring the relevant work to another party.

Suppliers are expected to take reasonable steps to ensure that subcontractors involved in supplying goods or services to Weaver Bird comply with applicable legal, ethical, labour, health and safety, quality, and environmental requirements.

The use of a subcontractor does not relieve the supplier of its obligations to Weaver Bird.
