RESPONSIBLE SOURCING POLICY

1. Purpose

Weaver Bird Garment Manufacturers Ltd is committed to maintaining a professional, respectful, safe, ethical, and productive workplace.

This Employee Code of Conduct & Ethics establishes the standards of behaviour expected of all employees in the performance of their duties and in their interactions with colleagues, customers, suppliers, contractors, institutions, and other stakeholders.

Every employee is expected to act honestly, responsibly, professionally, and with integrity and to conduct themselves in a manner that supports the reputation, values, and legitimate interests of Weaver Bird Garment Manufacturers Ltd.

This Code provides general standards of conduct and should be read together with employees' terms of employment and other applicable company policies and procedures.

2. Scope

This Code applies to all employees of Weaver Bird Garment Manufacturers Ltd, including permanent, temporary, casual, probationary, trainee, and other categories of employees, as applicable.

Certain requirements may also apply to interns, consultants, contractors, or other persons working within Weaver Bird premises or acting on behalf of the company where appropriate.

Employees in supervisory or management positions have an additional responsibility to promote compliance with this Code and to demonstrate appropriate standards of conduct.

3. General Principles of Conduct

Employees are expected to:

- Perform their duties honestly, diligently, competently, and responsibly;

- Act with integrity and professionalism;
- Treat others fairly, courteously, and respectfully;
- Take responsibility for their actions and decisions;
- Follow lawful and reasonable instructions relating to their work;
- Comply with applicable company policies, procedures, and workplace requirements;
- Protect company property, information, and resources;
- Maintain appropriate standards of workplace behaviour;
- Avoid conduct that could improperly compromise their judgment or responsibilities; and
- Report serious misconduct or suspected violations of this Code through the appropriate channels.

4. Performance of Duties

Employees are expected to perform assigned duties to the best of their ability and to maintain appropriate standards of quality, productivity, accuracy, and workmanship.

Employees must:

- Follow approved production procedures, specifications, measurements, samples, and work instructions relevant to their duties;
- Exercise reasonable care when handling garments, fabrics, equipment, machinery, customer property, and other materials;
- Accurately record production, attendance, stock, quality, financial, delivery, or other information for which they are responsible;
- Promptly report errors, defects, shortages, equipment problems, safety hazards, or other matters that may affect production or service quality; and
- Cooperate reasonably with supervisors and colleagues in completing assigned work.

Employees must not deliberately conceal production errors, quality defects, damaged materials, incorrect quantities, or other matters that could adversely affect Weaver Bird or its customers.

5. Attendance and Punctuality

Employees are expected to observe their designated working hours and attendance requirements.

Employees should:

- Report to work punctually and be ready to perform their duties at the required time;
- Observe authorised break and meal periods;
- Notify the appropriate supervisor as soon as reasonably possible when unable to report to work;
- Obtain required authorisation for leave or absence; and
- Follow applicable procedures for recording attendance and working time.

Persistent lateness, unauthorised absence, abandonment of assigned duties, or falsification of attendance records may be addressed through the company's applicable procedures.

6. Respectful Workplace

Weaver Bird is committed to maintaining a workplace in which employees are treated with dignity and respect.

Employees must not engage in:

- Bullying;
- Threats or intimidation;
- Abusive or insulting behaviour;
- Unlawful discrimination;
- Harassment;
- Victimisation;
- Humiliation or deliberate degradation of another person; or
- Other inappropriate conduct that creates a hostile or disrespectful working environment.

Disagreements should be handled professionally and, where necessary, referred to an appropriate supervisor or manager for resolution.

7. Harassment

Weaver Bird does not tolerate harassment in the workplace.

Employees must not engage in unwelcome verbal, physical, visual, or other conduct that constitutes harassment or creates an intimidating, hostile, humiliating, or offensive working environment.

Employees who experience or witness suspected harassment are encouraged to report the matter through the appropriate company channels.

Reports will be handled responsibly, and confidentiality will be maintained to the extent reasonably practicable.

8. Health and Safety

Every employee has a responsibility to contribute to a safe and healthy workplace.

Employees must:

- Follow workplace health and safety procedures;
- Use machinery, tools, equipment, and materials only as authorised and instructed;
- Use required personal protective equipment appropriately;
- Keep work areas reasonably clean and orderly;
- Follow applicable fire, emergency, and evacuation procedures;
- Promptly report workplace accidents, injuries, hazards, defective equipment, or unsafe conditions; and

- Avoid behaviour that unnecessarily places themselves or others at risk.

Employees must not deliberately interfere with, misuse, remove, or disable safety equipment or protective measures.

9. Personal Appearance and Workplace Attire

Employees are expected to maintain an appropriate standard of personal appearance, cleanliness, and dress suitable for their duties and working environment.

Where uniforms, protective clothing, identification, or other designated workwear is provided or required, employees are expected to wear and maintain it appropriately while performing the relevant duties.

Clothing, jewellery, footwear, hairstyles, or other items must not create an avoidable safety risk when operating or working near machinery or production equipment.

10. Company Property and Resources

Employees must use Weaver Bird property and resources responsibly and primarily for legitimate company purposes.

Company property may include:

- Machinery and production equipment;
- Tools;
- Computers and communication equipment;
- Vehicles;
- Fabrics, trims, garments, and other materials;
- Office equipment and stationery;
- Company documents and records;
- Intellectual property;
- Company funds; and
- Other assets entrusted to employees.

Employees must not steal, deliberately damage, improperly remove, misuse, sell, or use company property for unauthorised personal purposes.

Loss, damage, theft, or suspected misuse of company property should be promptly reported.

11. Confidential and Company Information

Employees may have access to confidential or commercially sensitive information through their work.

Such information may include customer information, pricing, quotations, tender information, employee records, supplier information, production information, garment specifications, designs, measurements, financial information, business plans, passwords, and other non-public company information.

Employees must protect such information from unauthorised access, use, copying, alteration, or disclosure.

Confidential information obtained through employment must be used only for legitimate work purposes and must not be disclosed to unauthorised persons.

These obligations may continue after employment ends where required by applicable law, contractual obligations, or the nature of the information concerned.

12. Company Records and Information

Employees must maintain honest and accurate records when their duties involve creating, recording, approving, or reporting company information.

Employees must not knowingly:

- Falsify company records;
- Alter records to conceal errors or misconduct;
- Submit false production or attendance information;
- Create false invoices, receipts, delivery records, expense claims, or other documents;
- Misrepresent quantities, measurements, specifications, or completed work; or
- Destroy or conceal records for an improper purpose.

Errors discovered in company records should be reported and corrected through the appropriate process.

13. Conflicts of Interest

Employees should avoid situations in which their personal, financial, family, or other interests improperly conflict, or appear to conflict, with their responsibilities to Weaver Bird.

A conflict of interest may arise where an employee has a personal interest in a customer, supplier, contractor, competitor, transaction, recruitment decision, procurement decision, or other matter involving the company.

Employees must not use their position to improperly obtain benefits for themselves, relatives, friends, or business associates.

An actual or potential conflict of interest that could affect an employee's duties should be disclosed promptly to management so that it can be appropriately assessed and managed.

14. Gifts, Bribery and Corruption

Employees must comply with Weaver Bird's Anti-Bribery & Anti-Corruption Policy.

Employees must not offer, request, accept, or provide bribes, kickbacks, improper payments, or other benefits intended to improperly influence a business or official decision.

Gifts and hospitality must not be offered or accepted where they could improperly influence, or reasonably appear to influence, an employee's judgment or a business decision.

Employees who are uncertain whether a proposed gift, payment, hospitality, or benefit is appropriate should seek guidance from management.

15. Dealings with Customers, Suppliers and Other Stakeholders

Employees representing Weaver Bird are expected to treat customers, suppliers, contractors, institutions, visitors, and other stakeholders professionally, fairly, and courteously.

Employees must not knowingly make false or misleading representations regarding Weaver Bird products, prices, capabilities, delivery arrangements, specifications, warranties, or other business matters.

Only employees with appropriate authority may make commitments, approve transactions, enter agreements, or make representations on behalf of the company.

16. Use of Technology and Communication Systems

Company computers, internet access, email accounts, telephones, software, and other communication systems should be used responsibly and in accordance with their intended business purposes and applicable company procedures.

Employees must not:

- Access company systems without authorisation;
- Share passwords or access credentials improperly;
- Deliberately introduce malicious software;
- Use company systems to engage in unlawful or seriously inappropriate conduct;
- Disclose confidential information through unauthorised communication channels; or
- Use another employee's account or identity without proper authorisation.

Employees should exercise appropriate care when handling electronic information and communications relating to the company.

17. Social Media and Public Communications

Employees should use social media responsibly where their activities could reasonably be associated with Weaver Bird.

Employees must not disclose confidential company, customer, supplier, or employee information through social media or other public channels.

Employees must not falsely represent personal opinions as official statements of Weaver Bird.

Only persons authorised to speak on behalf of the company may issue official statements or communications representing Weaver Bird's position.

Nothing in this section is intended to improperly restrict employees from exercising rights available to them under applicable law.

18. Outside Employment and Business Activities

Employees should ensure that outside employment, businesses, or other activities do not improperly interfere with their duties to Weaver Bird.

Employees must not use Weaver Bird working time, confidential information, equipment, materials, customer relationships, or other company resources for unauthorised outside commercial activities.

Where an outside activity creates an actual or potential conflict of interest with Weaver Bird, the employee should disclose the matter to management.

19. Fraud, Theft and Dishonesty

Fraud, theft, deliberate deception, misappropriation, and other dishonest conduct are prohibited.

Employees must not improperly obtain company, customer, supplier, or employee property or funds or knowingly assist another person in doing so.

Suspected fraud, theft, or serious dishonesty should be reported promptly.

20. Reporting Misconduct

Employees are encouraged to report suspected misconduct, unethical behaviour, serious violations of company policies, or other activities that may expose employees, customers, or Weaver Bird to significant harm or risk.

Concerns may be raised with an immediate supervisor, departmental head, management, or another appropriate company representative.

Concerns may also be submitted through:

Email: info@weaverbirdkenya.com

Reports should be made honestly and in good faith. Reports will be handled responsibly, and confidentiality will be maintained to the extent reasonably practicable.

21. Protection Against Retaliation

Weaver Bird does not tolerate retaliation against an employee who raises a genuine concern in good faith or appropriately assists with the review or investigation of a reported concern.

An employee will not be penalised merely because a concern raised in good faith is ultimately found to be mistaken or unsubstantiated.

Knowingly making a false, malicious, or deliberately misleading allegation may, however, constitute misconduct.

22. Compliance with Company Policies

Employees are expected to familiarise themselves with and comply with company policies and procedures applicable to their duties.

This includes, where applicable, Weaver Bird policies relating to:

- Human rights;
- Anti-bribery and anti-corruption;
- Health and safety;
- Confidentiality and information protection;
- Workplace conduct;
- Intellectual property; and
- Other employment or operational matters.

Where an employee is uncertain about the application of a policy or procedure, guidance should be sought from the appropriate supervisor or management.

23. Breaches of the Code

Suspected violations of this Code may be reviewed or investigated in accordance with applicable company procedures.

Employees are expected to cooperate honestly with authorised investigations.

Where misconduct is established, appropriate action may be taken having regard to the nature and circumstances of the matter, applicable company procedures, the employee's terms of employment, and applicable law.

Serious misconduct may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment, where appropriate and lawful.

Nothing in this Code replaces or limits any procedural or other rights and obligations arising under applicable employment law.

24. Employee Responsibility and Acknowledgement

Every employee is responsible for understanding and observing the standards relevant to their role under this Code.

Employees should seek guidance from their supervisor or management whenever they are uncertain about the appropriate course of action.

Employees may be required to acknowledge that they have received, read, understood, and agree to comply with this Code.
